Line 6: Vulnerability reduction initiatives and promotion of socio-economic rights

This line welcomes all those works that are oriented towards the formulation and/or the evaluation of public policies or private actions headed towards the consecution of an improvement in the living conditions of a population or geographical zone, through progress in social protection that mitigates the vulnerability against natural disasters and adverse economic situations carrying with them the reduction of family income. Although advances in the reduction of extreme poverty have been made, there is still a need for actions that guarantee the access to basic services like potable water, sanitation, as well as education and health. In addition, the development of mechanisms of social protection that guarantee the sufficiency of income throughout a life's entirety and facing episodes of illness or unemployment is still necessary. Finally, this line also welcomes works that cover the principles for the formulation and the design of policies, the proposed measures, the exchange of experiences and good practices, as well as the sharing of achieved results.
